Safety Precautions Urged in Cleaning

Danger of Fire, Vapor Inhalations Are Cited

Housewives in rural areas sometimes find it inconvenient to send clothes out to be dry cleaned and therefore do the work themselves. For this purpose, they may go to a nearby automobile service station and buy gasoline or to a hardware store or general store and buy "cleaning fluid."

Gasoline is intended to make motors operate and should never be employed as a solvent because of its great flammability. There are specially refined petroleum products available with cleaning and degreasing properties somewhat like those of gasoline but with considerably less fire hazard, although any petroleum product can burn if it is brought in contact with a source of ignition.

Stand so vapors will be carried away from you; do the work outdoors.

Even a small amount of solvent is to be used the work can be done indoors safely enough. If the fluid can burn, just be careful to use it where there are no nearby sources of ignition and don't smoke or light matches while you are handling the fluid.

However, when a large job is to be done, such as cleaning an entire dress or a pair of overalls or removing grease from a number of tools which may require more than three quarts of solvent used over a period of perhaps half an hour. Do the work outdoors, stand so that vapors will be carried away from you, not towards you, and allow the cleaned articles to dry thoroughly before you bring them indoors. When you are finished, if your hands feel dry, wash with lukewarm water and rub a cream containing lanolin into the skin.

Brahman Cattle May Vie With Many Domestic Kine

Cattle imported from India may one day compete with established beef cattle breeds in the markets of the midwest, according to many livestock experts. One Nebraska farmer, a hybrid corn pioneer, believes Brahmans will be as popular as domestic breeds in the next few years.

Corn belt farmers scattered thinly from Nebraska to Ohio are experimenting with Brahmans and crosses of Brahmans on regular beef herds.

The Brahman beef calves weigh 50 to 100 pounds more by weaning age and dress out two to four per cent higher than the usual run of cattle? Do they make economical feedlot and pasture gains and endure heat and insects better than other cattle? These are some of the questions to which it is hoped answers will be found through the studies and experiments being conducted.

[illegible] does it take to be a winner? [illegible]an you think in effort, but [illegible]than you think in percentages. [illegible]ering, one of the greatest base- [illegible]tchers in the history of the [illegible] pitched 854 games. And how [illegible]times did he win? Five hun- [illegible] and eleven - not too much over [illegible]. Yes, if you keep on trying, and [illegible]5 per cent of the time, you are [illegible]mner!

[illegible]re to keep up with the news, so [illegible] for weeks that the end was [illegible]ng for Sir Harry Lauder, the [illegible]Scotman, entertainer and fa- [illegible]vaudevillian of the old days. [illegible]now, Sir Harry has passed on, [illegible]e great bard; he with the twist- [illegible]se, the highland burr; the mod- [illegible]opolodour who thrilled and en- [illegible]ined the world. I heard him [illegible]- my favorite of his songs [illegible]"Oh, t's nice to get up in the [illegible]ning, when the sun begins to [illegible]s at four or five or six o'clock, [illegible]he good summertime! But, when [illegible]snow is zooming, and it's murky [illegible]rning - but it's nicer to stay [illegible]ear bed!" How Sir Harry could [illegible]those "It's." But the song which [illegible]e him famous was: [illegible]aining in the gloaming on [illegible]h bonnie banks of Clyde; [illegible]aming in the gloaming, with [illegible]y lassie by my side."

[illegible] decades, he was the Will [illegible]ers of the British Isles - and that [illegible]retty good company.

[illegible]e's one thing serving as every [illegible]y friend. What is it? It is well [illegible]ised and well placed advertising. [illegible] the manufacturer's friend, for [illegible]ves him a chance to acquaint [illegible]sands of people at once with the [illegible] product he has made. It is the [illegible]chant's friend, for advertising [illegible]e people to his store and gives [illegible]nvites a chance to turn their in- [illegible]est into sales. It is the consum- [illegible]r friend, for advertising informs [illegible]ells you what, where, when and [illegible]w much. And by making volume [illegible]possible it brings down costs. [illegible] well advertised product can be [illegible]d more cheaply than the little [illegible]known product. This is why advertising has so many friends: it benefits everyone. There are many kinds of spend an advertising dollar. But [illegible]record is that well-planned advertising in newspapers does more and less cost. And nowhere is that so [illegible]ngs in the case of the weekly [illegible]newspaper. A small ad in a huge [illegible]etropolitan paper might not be [illegible]ed by many of its readers; but the [illegible]ekly newspaper is the most thoroughly read medium in America.

You have driven, as have I, along shoreline, and seen trees, pressed [illegible]by a breeze, and leaned upon [illegible]stiff winds, and pushed by hurri- [illegible]ane, with the result that the trees [illegible]e bent and oddly shaped. The old [illegible]ying is: as the twig is bent, the [illegible]e's inclined. We accept that as [illegible]uth. Therefore, how important it [illegible] that our nation find the qualified [illegible]hool teachers it needs. We are [illegible]dd that the state of Michigan needs [illegible],500 more teachers; Ohio, 3,000; [illegible]alifornia, 4,000; Virginia, 5,000; [illegible]nd so on for a grand total of over [illegible]6,000 in the elementary grades [illegible]ons. In Mississippi last year the [illegible]verage teacher pay was $1,393; in [illegible]w York the average pay was [illegible]3,775; in Ohio, $2,893; in Georgia [illegible]$1,900. The pay of the average [illegible]teacher in California was twice that [illegible]of Kentucky. Counting local, state [illegible]and federal funds, America spent [illegible]4 billion, 600 million dollars last [illegible]year on its schools. Yet vast new [illegible]sums are needed. Even in the high- [illegible]er ranking states. 1,125,000 South- [illegible]ern children are handicapped all [illegible]through life by schooling below the [illegible]competitive ranking. It is a vast and [illegible]intricate problem.

[illegible]hig store kept a sort of public [illegible]bulletin board, where customers or [illegible]visitors could write personal mes- [illegible]sages to their friends. Sort of an [illegible]engagement bulletin, too. So one day [illegible]the following message appeared on [illegible]the board: "Susie, we waited until [illegible]11:30 and then we went!"

[illegible]es, for this week, Father Dark- [illegible]leaf has, went!

(Why not? The column came out even!)

Ask Tobacco Growers to Mass Meeting

An effort is being made to gather up to 1,000 or more dark tobacco growers from the entire darkleaf belt in Farmville, at the high school, on Saturday morning, March 11, at 10:00 o'clock. The gathering is to participate in a hearing with officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture on the matter of acreage allotments for Virginia dark tobacco growers, and the principal discussion will be on efforts of Virginia growers to have their leaf type 21 separated from Kentucky and Tennessee types in establishing allotments.

Congressmen from the dark tobacco counties, and representatives of state and federal agencies have been invited to this meeting.

In the past ten years, the Virginia dark fired tobacco has been cut in acreage from 23,000 in 1939, to 10,000 harvested in 1949. Types 22, 23 and 21 have been cut from 91,500 acres in 1939, to 17,700 acres in 1949. This works to a cut of 54 per cent for Virginia and cuts of 47.9 per cent for the other types.

Coble Needs Milk Increase

Coble Dairy Products, Inc., needs a minimum of 300,000 pounds more milk per day for ice cream, cottage cheese, butter, and other manufactured dairy products, which would mean an increase of approximately 15,000 cows, reports J. K. Marshall, Coble fieldman in this area, who attended a meeting of all Coble fieldmen in Lexington, N. C. Monday, February 20.

This fact, disclosed by George S. Coble, president of the large dairy organization, climaxed the meeting which was held for the purpose of making plans for increasing the company's manufacturing milk supply.

"The greatest need of our company today is to procure a greater amount of milk for manufacturing purposes," Mr. Coble stated. "We are now buying over 200,000 pounds of milk daily from outside our producing area, and still a large amount of our processing equipment is idle because we are not getting enough milk to operate at full capacity."

Mr. Marshall urges all farmers in this area who are interested in selling manufacturing milk to contact him at the Coble plant here.

Leat Insurance Now Offered

Several news features have been added to the tobacco insurance policy now being offered to burley, bright, dark-fired growers in Appomattox County this year, Bennett Harding, PMA County Chairman explained this week.

The principal added feature, he said, is the "fire clause" that gives growers protection on losses from fire while the crop is in the stripping houses or curing barns. This year's policy also provides that a premium reduction of 25 per cent will be accorded after seven years with no losses. Another reduction of 5 per cent in premium rate is allowed for payment by July 31, 1950.

Appomattox County's premium rate on dark-fired tobacco is $5.30 per acre and gives all-risk coverage on production investment amounting to $185.00 per acre; and the premium rate on flue-cured is $7.95,which gives all-risk coverage on production investment amounting to $240 per acre.

Ball Game For March 31

The A. H. S. boys are waiting for sunshine to get out on the baseball diamond. The school seldule has been prepared, and calls for the first game at Amherst on March 31. That is not far off, so the sooner the sun comes out and the weather man says "go" the better it will be for baseball prospects.

Barter Players Will Be Here March 27th

The Appomattox P.-T. A. has announced that the Barter Theater Players will return to Appomattox this month. The P.-T. A. will sponsor the players again this year. The play to be presented is "Thunder Rock," and the presentation will be on March 27, at the high school.

New Record For Tobacco

Sales throughout the Virginia fire-cured tobacco markets during the late season brought the highest averages ever recorded, according to state and federal agencies.

Gross sales amounted to 12,547,109 pounds and the average price was $33.54 per hundred. The price was 65 cents higher than the 1148-49 average. The crop was declared highly desirable for snuff manufacture.

Testified on D. P. Families

Appomattox County Aent R. B. Hudgins was in Washington last Friday to testify before a U. S. Senate Committee on the Displaced Persons program. He stated: "From experience I have had dealing with the farmers and D. P. families, it is evident that something needs to be done regarding the present system of placing Displaced Persons on farms." He added that "our experience has been of the cleanest D. P. families in my county, seven of them have left on two week's notice."

SEEK LARGER ACREAGE

Congressman Watkins M. Abbitt has urged that speedy action be taken to forestall "a drastic cut" in acreage allotments for growers of Virginia type peanuts. He has offered a bill to separate the Virginia type peanuts, which has good demand, from other types, in acreage allotments.

EVERGREEN W. M. U.

The W. M. U. of the Evergreen Baptist Church held its regular meeting Wednesday night, February 22, in the home of Mrs. J. C. Staples. There were 13 members present and several visitors. Mrs. Earl Harris had charge of the Royal Service program. Mrs. J. C. Staples gave an interesting stewardship program. The next meeting will be in the church, it being the Home Mission program, on March 22.

Chest X-Rays At Clinics To Be Held

The Appomattox County Health Department and the County Tuberculosis Association have arranged a schedule of X-Ray clinics, aimed at the control of tuberculosis in the county. All children over 15 years of age as well as all adults, white and colored, are urged to attend these clinics and have an X-Ray taken. There will be no charge for this service. All will be notified of the result. The schedule follows:

March 30, Health Center at Appomattox, 9 A. M. - 5 P. M.

March 31, Down Town, Appomattox, 9 A. M. - 5 P.M.

April 3, Stonewall, Blanketship's Store, 9 A. M. - 5 P. M.

April 4, Oakville, Martin's Store, 9 A. M., 5 P. M.

April 5, Stonewall, Blankenship's 9 P. M.

April 6, Pamplin, at the Masonic Hall, 9 A. M., 5 P. M.

Tuberculosis often exists without the presence of symptoms and of signs; it is no respector of persons, and it is preventable. The X-Ray detects tuberculosis and therefore it protects both the individual and the community.

Concord People Protest Planned Consolidation

More than 200 Concord citizens went on record at a mass meeting at Concord Monday night against a proposed consolidation of the Concord and Rustburg High Schools. Under a proposed plan, the consolidated school would be at Rustburg.

The sentiment of the meeting was unanimous. The two schools are ten miles apart, Concord with about 75 high school students and Rustburg with 125. The consolidation is part of a program for Campbell County urged by the State Board of Education and the Denny Commission.

The Concord patrons agreed to ask the school board to put the consolidated school at Concord, and declared that better plant facilities exist there. It was estimated that to rebuild the Rustburg school so as to accomodate students from both present schools would cost $250,000 but necessary enlargement could be made at Concord for $50,000.

The mass meeting also considered a plan whereby the Concord, Rustburg and Brookville High Schools would all three be consolidated at Concord, providing about 350 high school students.

A committee of five was named to appear before the Campbell school board next Monday night. The committee: H. B. Glass, N. R. Reasor, Charles Kirkland, C. H. Carson and Mrs. Myra Cardwell.
